a. PCA Method of Measurement in accordance with the Property Council of Australia's 'PCA Method'. See also the draft area plan. b. Figure. The figure is different for every apartment. Marketing floor plans show a single typical layout configuration for an apartment and should not be used to determine the position of layout elements. The building information plans should be cross-referenced by the purchaser to confirm the position of the various layout elements for each apartment. c. Section. Please refer to our 'Contract for Sale' for a list of inclusions with the property. Furnishings shown are indicative only and are not included. d. The plan was produced using a combination of an overhead aerial photograph and a ground plan. Dimensions are subject to survey by the project. Some floor plan dimensions may not be exact due to the information contained in this advertising and marketing document. e. Any proposed parties should make their own enquiries as to the accuracy of the information. We exclude all implied terms, conditions and warranties arising out of this document and any liability for loss or damage arising therefrom.
